The George Street Market at Christmas time is unbeatable. There's lots of independent crafters and artists to support, gifts to buy and delicious treats to try while you shop. You can also take in a wide variety of street performers and entertainment during the holidays.

- RONALD from NEWINGTON

Afternoon tea at Prestonfield House during Christmas is a must. Enjoy a fireside treat next to a proper logfire and meet some of the locals. If you happen to be in town during one of their Christmas bashes, don't miss it. It's an evening of fine food, drink and entertainment in the incredible Prestonfield ballroom.

- WENDY from NEWINGTON

If it's shopping you're after try any of Castle Terrace Market. It's on 9am to 2pm every Saturday and is the perfect place to stumble across that little something special for a present.

- LOUISA from WEST END

Edinburgh goes all out with decorations during the holiday season. Walk around Old Town & over the bridges to New Town to compare the sights. When you need a warm up, check out one of the lovely independent coffee shops. My favourites are Black Medicine coffee, Brew Lab, Wellington Coffee, and Lovecrumbs.

- HEATHER from PRESTONFIELD

Stroll down Princes Street, around George Street and The Mound during the holidays, there's always some place you can sneak into to enjoy a nice pint or warm up. If you or your wee ones are fans of decorations, these streets are brightly lit up with beautiful Christmas decorations. If you're staying for Hogmanay festivities, you'll be able to catch the Street Party which has become one of the world's biggest New Year's Eve celebrations.

- ROBERT from SOUTHSIDE

The Canny Man's is one of the Edinburgh's oldest pubs, known for its quirky nature and 'never' changing décor. Established in 1871 by James Kerr the pub has always been the perfect watering hole for Morningside locals. It's also one of the warmest and cheeriest places you will find over the holidays!

- ALEX from LEITH

The Botanic Gardens is fantastic during Christmas! It's nice to go and wander around with a little quiet when everywhere else is so busy and hectic during the holiday season.

- FIONA from CORSTORPHINE

Dean Village, nestled a short walk from the city centre is Edinburgh's best hidden gem during the holidays. Away from the hustle and bustle of the city, the area is beautiful and also interesting architecturally and historically.

- CALUM from DEAN VILLAGE

The East Princes Street Gardens Christmas Market is a must. There are plenty of local vendors selling all sorts of unique and interesting Christmas gifts and crafts. There's lots of food and drink to go around and lots of Christmas cheer too!

- MOAMEN from LEITH

If you're in Edinburgh for the holidays, you have to stop at The Sheep Heid Inn for a whiskey to warm yourself up! It's one of the oldest public houses in Edinburgh and is steeped in history.

- HILARY from DUDDINGSTON

My favourite gem during the holiday season is The Dome restaurant on George Street. Especially during the Christmas holidays when it is adorned with the best Christmas decorations in Edinburgh! The Dome is always welcoming and friendly and offers lovely bar food and an impressive sit down meal for an evening out, traditional afternoon tea is also available on request.

- ANNE-MARIE from SILVERKNOWES

No trip to Edinburgh is complete without a short trek up Arthur's Seat to enjoy panoramic views of the city. For a more leisurely activity, try a stroll through New Town – just make sure to stop by Sugar Daddy's for a gluten free treat!
